

DIRECT YOUR BUSINESS

Direct your business towards a cost-effective security posture that delivers tangible business value.

Is your business seeking strategic direction in its cyber security and risk programmes? Six Degrees will enable you to enhance your cyber security posture by directing your business towards a security strategy that is aligned to your business objectives.

Business Challenges

Unable to gain a complete picture on the most proportionate strategy to retain and improve your security posture, due to the dynamic nature of the threat and regulatory landscape.

Struggling to distil, analyse, and have surety of direction on security planning with constrained budgets and compliance obligations.

Introducing Direct Your Business

Six Degrees offers a virtual Chief Information Security Officer (vCISO) service which gives your business clear cyber security business direction through access to board-level cyber security expertise on an on-demand basis.

The vCISO service offers expert leadership in cyber security without the cost of a full-time executive hire. You will gain access to a seasoned professional who understands both business and technology, bringing strategic guidance, risk management, regulatory compliance expertise, and a security strategy tailored to your business objectives.

Six Degrees can also enhance your decision-making capabilities through the additional provision of Information Security Managers, providing expert leadership in cyber security without the cost of a full-time executive hire.

Your Information Security Manager will enhance your security management capabilities and navigate the complexities of information security, offering specialised guidance in risk management, policy development, security operations, security project management, and security incident response.

Why Direct Your Business?

What It Does	Why This Matters	What It Means
Interim CISO.	Decisive, timely decision making is crucial in the cyber space to minimise business impacting events and shorten the window of exposure.	Lowers your exposure when you lack a permanent CISO.
Reasonable and proportional security controls de-risk against breaches.	Pragmatism is needed when defining where to prioritise security efforts and budgets, as it is inherently a never-ending challenge due to the evolving nature of the threat landscape.	Confidence that security investments and decisions are being prioritised appropriately to provide a proportionate risk tolerance and security posture.
Enable the security objectives of your business with clear metrics to demonstrate the board's objectives and goals are being met from a cyber security and risk perspective.	Business brand and customer trust will be inherently tied to the service customers receive and how their data is handled. Ensuring business objectives from a customer-centric point of view are met is crucial.	Board level engagement and communication to ensure objectives are delivered to and challenged where appropriate.
Adding business value through security.	Credibility and trust are core tenets of an attractive brand. An improved security posture can enhance your brand and add value to your business.	Improving your security posture makes it easier for customers to do business with you.
Access to highly experienced and vetted peers proportionate to the input your own CISO requires.	CISOs need a sounding board. It is easy to miss something important if you are not considering all factors and unconsidered needs. We can help accelerate decision making and scrutinise those decisions before they are made.	Augment and complement your own CISO's experience.
